Division Loss Scare Need Not Worry the People There

The report that the Rock Island divi-ion is to be moved from Backlin is worrying a good many people in Ford a unity. Even bough the division may be changed, the GL BE REPUBLICAN believes that Booklin will emprove more in the next two years than she has in the past. There are other railroad projects which seem to be practical certainties. which will boom Bucklin anew. In the next two years she will be located on a very important northwest and south east Gulf line. Her agricultural interests are only in their infancy. Bucklin will be a good town, a very much better town than at present, and possibly she will improve much faster if the people do not depend so much on the Rock Island terminals,

"'Go away,' said Mr. Black. 'I want nothing of the kind. You are a bad man. Go away.'

"But the amuggler must have doubted the sincerity of this repulse, for now, leaning over the counter again, he whispered still more earnestly: "I'll take prayer books for it."

Lobster's Bad Character. The Scotch fishery board in its wenty-third annual report gives the following as the characteristics of the lobster. It is an essentially surly, suspicious and ansociable fish, and regards anything that comes near it as its foe. The main motive of its activity is defense, and in defending itself it manifests a blind and unrelenting vengeance. It procures a hole in which to wait for its prey, and to which to retire after a fight, and it is then unsafe for any animal to approach ft.

Its keenness of attack and relentess hold when once it has gripped is antagonist are due to its want of ight. The eye of the lobster is so sensitive that strong light blinds it. Although it possesses keen sight buildings, price $5.00 per acre, Also he thought he had a better piece in when first hatched, the lobster is practically blind later in life. It sees sensation of light and shadow. It tests a shadow with its antennae, and sometimes when a strong shadow is cast on it, the lobster will leap at it on the off-chance that it is a foe.

The fighting tendency makes it difficult to keep lobseters in confine-ment. When once they have settled down, however, they will live at eace with one another, but it is only an armed neutrality, and if one of the fish ever loses its fighting power it is at once attacked by the others.-American Shipping.

Frequently Means Saving of Much Time and Money.

A boy was sent by his father on an errand across a ravine through which creek ran. The trip was one of several miles, and, when returning, the boy thought to shorten the trip he would go through a half-mile of shrubbery and swamp. But in this place he found no paths, and wasted as much time as he expected to gain. When he reached a bank from which he could see the wanderings he had made he recognized many mistakes while in the shrubbery and swamp. He might have saved the time he expected to save had he known at the start what he knew by bservation from the bank after the
